

Thoughts from Creation

Think about the sense of humor God showed in His creation. Before He made man or even the land animals with whom we are most familiar, He filled the air and the waters with creatures specially adapted to those environments. He created tiny microorganisms that we cannot see and that it took us thousands of years to even discover, and far-flung stars and planets out further than we can see even now with our biggest telescopes.

He created an extravagant abundance, but He told us to take care of it.

We are created in God's image, not in the sense that we can create something from nothing, but in the sense that we can both appreciate and enjoy God's creation, and command it in such a way that even more beauty and usefulness comes forth.
